I've got a Coldfusion developer (part time photographer) friend who has just finished his photography site. It's up now at <http://www.tonybaileyphotography.com/> .

He's also been invited to provide a photo for the site <http://www.todaysphoto.org> . It is a night shot of the Bridge over the Severn Estuary, crossing from England to wales. You can view it here .

Also serves as a remind to me that I need to get out with my Canon more!
