

What does the ANT message - 'Files was unexpected at this time' mean?

If you run an ANT installation and see the error message:

```
Files was unexpected at this time.
```

Or something similar you have probably installed ANT into a directory with a space in it. The default path when installing is "c:\program files\ant", but it's a lot more useful to install it into a more base directory, such as "c:\ant".

You cannot set your ANT_HOME to a directory with spaces or special characters in it, unless you use a windows compatibly format, such as:

```
ANT_HOME=c:\progra-1\ant
```
